ABSTRACT & CONTEMPORARY ART

As a young girl I spent many hours at Santa Monica Beach in California. The rhythm, cadence and power of the waves crashing on the sand filled me with an excitement that today infuses my paintings.

Whimsy, movement and texture inspire each work of art. It's a success when a collector finds new relationships among the shapes and lines that lead to fresh discoveries.

Japanese papers, wrapping paper, packing material, found objects and gold wire are just a few of the materials you'll find in my creations. I've been known to cut unsuccessful paintings into strips and weave them into dramatic new ones. I've torn others into pieces and collaged them into a new relationship of shapes, textures and colors. Nothing gets wasted and no "work of art" is too sacred to re-purpose!
